Leading the way to Iran

MAXING OUT

WORDS: ROWENA SMITH

A West End psychologist will take her insights into the mysteries of leadership to Iran.

Narelle Stratford, who lives by the word of her business Live Life 2 The Max, will be a guest at the Eighth International Conference of Quality Managers next year.

She will deliver a presentation to 5000 delegates.

Iranian Society of Quality Managers president Hesam Aref Kashfi invited Ms Stratford after she delivered a similar presentation at QualCon 2006, the annual joint conference of the Australian Organisation for Quality and Asia Pacific Organisation for Quality in Sydney last month.

Her talk focused on leadership and answered questions people have on how to improve their leadership through working with their subconscious mind to become consciously self responsible.

Employees hope for festive gift

BOSS BONUS

WORDS: GRANT STOCKWELL

TOILET walls and the backs of pantry doors throughout the nation are again bracing themselves

The Scrooge survey revealed, 96 per cent of employees said something small was better than nothing at all.

A further 41 per cent of respondents claimed they had received a useless Christmas gift in the past five years.
